- Through February 16, 2012, the date of sale, Park National Corporation contributed $171.7 million in additional capital to Vision Bank.

Timeline of Regulatory Issues Pertaining to Vision Bank

- On June 30, 2011, Park made the first announcement regarding regulatory concern pertaining to the allowance for loan loss calculation at Vision Bank. Specifically, the Florida Office of Financial Regulation (the “OFR”) and the FDIC took exception to management’s use of approximately $18 million in expected payments from guarantors when calculating the allowance for loan losses.
- On August 15, 2011, Park filed the Form 10-Q for the second quarter of 2011, announcing a material weakness in internal control over financial reporting. This material weakness was the result of three items: (1) management had relied upon the work of a third-party specialist, who was not a licensed appraiser, to value certain nonperforming loan and OREO collateral; (2) management did not have sufficient documentation to support the valuations received from the third-party specialist; and (3) management had, at times, been relying on internal estimates of value as support for collateral values, which were more than one year old.
- On October 24, 2011, management announced earnings for the third quarter of 2011 and also announced that examination reports had been received by all three of the regulatory agencies involved with the Vision Bank guarantor support issue; the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland, the FDIC, and the OFR. All three reports of examination included the issue pertaining to reliance on guarantor support. Management stated that the intention was to appeal these findings and also disclosed that it was possible that the Call Reports for Vision Bank may have to be amended and re-filed.

Timeline of Regulatory Issues Pertaining to Vision Bank

- On December 14, 2011, management announced that the FDIC appeal was denied and that management would revise Park's Y-9C and Call Report for Vision Bank for December 31, 2010, March 31, 2011, June 30, 2011, and September 30, 2011.
- On January 23, 2012, management announced that the GAAP financial statements for December 31, 2010, March 31, 2011, June 30, 2011, and September 30, 2011 would need to be restated to ensure that regulatory reports and the GAAP reports filed with the SEC were consistent.
- On January 31, 2012, management announced that the restatement disclosed on January 23, 2012 was determined to be considered a correction of an error versus a change in accounting estimate. Therefore, management determined that a material weakness in financial reporting existed at December 31, 2010. Management had been relying on expected cash flows from guarantors when calculating the net present value of expected cash flows. However, when those cash flows required prolonged and protracted litigation, it is not possible to reasonably predict the timing of the cash flows; therefore, those estimated payments from guarantors should not have been included in expected cash flows.

TARP Repayment

- Park repurchased the $100 million of cumulative preferred shares from the U.S. Treasury on April 25, 2012. Total consideration paid of $101 million included accrued interest and unpaid dividends. The warrant associated with the preferred shares was repurchased on May 2, 2012 for $2.8 million. The warrant was recorded at $4.2 million on December 23, 2008.
- As part of the redemption, Park completed a $30 million Subordinated Note offering on Friday, April 20, 2012. The Subordinated Note offering qualifies as Tier II capital and pays interest at a fixed rate of 7 percent per annum for up to 10 years and is callable on April 20, 2017.
- Net income available to common shareholders will increase by $5.9 million annually (including the accretion of the discount) as a result of the redemption of the preferred shares. This is offset by $1.365 million, the annual after-tax expense related to the issuance of the Subordinated Notes. The net impact for shareholders is an annual gain of $4.535 million.
- After the repayment of TARP, capital ratios as of March 31, 2012 are 8.89%, 13.18%, and 15.75% for Leverage, Tier 1 Risk-Based, and Total Risk-Based Capital, respectively.

Why invest in Park National Corporation?

- Unique, localized business model makes us the bank of choice for customers.
- History of dividend payments to shareholders and a strong dividend yield.
- Favorably positioned to take advantage of growth opportunities in our markets, largely caused by industry dislocation, increased regulations and fatigue.
- Park's short interest position is high compared to both historic levels and peer group. As short interest position returns to historic levels, our stock price should react favorably.
- Experienced leadership team with proven knowledge of local markets.
- Management expects the Ohio franchise will earn $90 - $93 million in 2012. Using a P/E ratio of 13, implies a stock price of $75 to $80.
